

THE NEXT GRAND CHALLENGE: DATA SCIENCE

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 14 | 10:00AM-11:30AM

According to the National Academy of Sciences, "Data science is emerging as a field that is revolutionizing science and industries alike." Learning Lab's next Grand Challenge aims to expand data science pathways and offerings and position California as a leader in data science undergraduate education. Join us as we hear from some of California's data science pioneers about their journey and explore opportunities for collaboration.

PRESENTERS:

Nathalie Guebels

Professor of Computer Science
Santa Barbara City College

Eric Van Dusen

Outreach and
Technical Lead,
Data Science
Undergraduate Studies,
UC Berkeley

Ji Son

Professor of Psychology,
Cal State LA
Co-Founder,
Coursekata.org

Anthony Suen

Director of the Data Science
Discovery Program,
UC Berkeley

Suyen Machado

Director of the Introduction to Data Science Project (IDS),
UCLA Center X